

DEMOCRATS MAY
BIND MEMBERS
BY CAUCUS RULE*Would Thus Poll the Full
House Membership
For Repeal Act

Washington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Advocates of the prohibition repeal resolution slated for a House vote on Monday were cheered today by a Republican prediction that a hundred or more members of that party would back it.

Representative Carl Bachmann of West Virginia, the Republican whip, made the prediction as he sent out telegrams urging all his colleagues to be present the opening day of Congress.

Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, meanwhile said he had "suspected the situation" and found there was "no need for a party caucus" to hold the Democrats.

Talk of Caucus
Nevertheless, there was still talk of such a maneuver if the situation as of Monday would make it seem desirable in the view of the party leadership.

Senator McNary (R. Ore.), carried to President Hoover today an opinion that the repeal question could be "disposed of" on Capitol Hill before the Christmas holidays.

Before the Christmas holidays, he told newspapermen of his White House conference, but would not state whether he expected the disposition to be adopted or defeat of a repeal resolution.

In Rainey's opinion, there is a "good chance of repeal being adopted" in the House. On Monday the party lineup will be 220 Democrats, 208 Republicans, one Farmer-Labor and six vacancies.

Needs Two-Thirds Vote
It will require two thirds of those voting to approve repeal there, after which the problem goes to the Senate where a similar vote will be necessary for adoption.

Rainey said there were certain to be "some defections" among the southern Democrats in the House but with 100 or more Republicans supporting it, indications are the resolution has fair prospects of getting the required margin.

Bachmann told reporters "the Republicans have lost no advocates for repeal and have picked up some. We had ninety sure votes last spring."

He has sent telegrams, at the request of Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader, to their colleagues insisting that they be here for the vote Monday.

Representative McDuffie of Alabama has done the same for the Democrats, in his capacity as party whip.

Committee To Meet
The House Judiciary committee has called by Chairman Sumners to consider the repeal proposal Friday. Sumners says that no hearings are necessary and that the committee can act by Saturday.

Should the Judiciary committee fail to report the measure favorably, Garner will ask Representative Rainey of Illinois, party floor leader, to move for its consideration under suspension of rules. Debate would be limited to 40 minutes.

Senate members generally have taken the position of waiting to see what the House does on both repeal and beer, but the speedy action sought by Garner on repeal was defended by Senator Bingham.

Maytown Gas Field
May Be Developed

Rumors reaching Dixon today are to the effect that the Maytown natural gas field, where operations were suspended many months ago, are soon to be renewed. Four representatives of a Chicago development firm are reported to have visited the fields during the past few days, inspecting wells and outlining a plan for development in the near future.

Owners of land on which some of the wells are located have been consulted with reference to their leases and the prospects for a renewal of development operations.

It is reported that more than a million dollars has been expended in the development of the existing natural gas field in May township, southeast of Amboy in the past several years. According to the rumors current here today, the new promoters are discussing a plan of development only a small number of the most promising wells with a prospect of selling the output.

Railroad Police
Kill Car Robber

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—For want of a shoe the body of Louis Saccamonde, found shot to death in an alley today, was identified as the man who tried to rob a freight car across from the Central Police Station yesterday.

Railroad detectives chased two robbers away with bullets, saw one stagger and found his right shoe. Saccamonde's body lacked a right shoe. The left tallied with the shoe found in the railroad yards.

Police redoubled their search for Irving Conn, owner of the automobile in which the railroad thief escaped. The car had not been reported stolen.

Saccamonde had a police record dating from 1924. His father, Pasquale, employe of the city hall and Sanitary District, maintains a "political" address in the ward where his son's body was found and lives on North Sheridan Road. He said he had not seen his son since the November 8 election.

It is figured that about four per cent of the population of the United States is left-handed.

Mother Of Rev.
Barnett Follows
Husband In Death

Mrs. Mary Matilda Barnett, aged 84 years and four months, mother of Rev. James A. Barnett, pastor of the Christian church in this city, passed away at her home eight miles west of Clinton, Ill., at 1:30 o'clock this morning, less than twelve hours after her life mate had been laid to rest at Hallville cemetery in the little community where the two established their homestead many years ago and where they reared their family.

Mrs. Barnett had not been well for some time and the passing of her husband, John R. Barnett, aged 84 years and six months, on Saturday, proved too much of a shock for her to overcome and she joined him in death at the early hour this morning. Her funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon and she will be laid to rest at the Hallville cemetery where her helpmate was laid yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Barnett will remain at the old home until after his mother's funeral. Rev. Bollinger of Mt. Morris filling his engagements at the Grand Detour Christian church tonight and tomorrow evening.

The many friends of the Dixon pastor will unite in condolence in his double bereavement.

Rep. Rankin Wants
To Expand Currency

Washington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bills designed to alleviate and end present hard times are ready for introduction on the opening day of Congress, among them being a measure by Representative Rankin for expansion of the currency.

Reciting that the purchasing power of the dollar is 36 per cent above the average of the period from 1921 to 1929, the Mississippi Democrat's bill calls for the issuance of new interest-bearing Treasury securities to be known as "Liberty Notes."

They would be issued in a minimum amount equal to four dollars per capita of the population of the country and would be used to pay the deficit and current expenses of the government until the general commodity index of the country rises to 100, it now being about 64. Some of the notes would be retired from circulation if the index rose above 103. The bill assigns the Treasury Department the responsibility of maintaining the value of money at approximately the normal index of 100.

Rankin said there was a sufficient amount of gold in the Treasury to enable the expansion without endangering the gold standard.

Missouri Bank Is Wrecked By Bandits

Laclede, Mo., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Benzon bank here and several adjoining buildings were partly demolished early today by a terrific explosion, apparently the work of bank robbers.

The bank vault remained intact but officials said safe deposit boxes had been rifled and an unknown amount of money and valuables taken.

Postage stamps also were taken from the nearby post office.

The night marshal reported he saw a motor car speed from the direction of the wrecked buildings.

REPRESENTATIVE
McLAUGHLIN OF
MICHIGAN DEAD*Dean Of Delegation In Congress Victim Of Heart Attack

Washington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Representative James C. McLaughlin of Michigan is dead at Marion, Va.

Word of the sudden death today reached his colleague, Representative Ketcham.

McLaughlin was dean of his state's delegation in the House, where he had served 26 years as a Republican representative from the Ninth District.

Ketcham said he had been taking a motor trip through Virginia with friends and had recently complained of not feeling well.

"Mr. McLaughlin was called at his hotel in Marion at 8 o'clock this morning," Ketcham said, "and said he would be down to breakfast immediately."

"When he did not appear for some time, hotel attendants again knocked on his door."

"Receiving no answer they entered and found Mr. McLaughlin dead in the shower. Apparently he died of heart failure."

Arrangements for the funeral were being made this afternoon between members of the Michigan delegation in Congress and the Sergeant at Arms, Kenneth Romney.

McLaughlin was a member of the powerful House Ways and Means committee.

The death will bring the party lineup in the present House of Representatives to 208 Republicans, 220 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor and six vacancies.

NATIVE OF ILLINOIS
Detroit, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Rep. James C. McLaughlin, found dead today in Marion, Va., was the oldest member, in point of service, of the Michigan delegation in Congress, having been first elected to the House in 1907.

He met his first defeat in the Democratic wave that swept many of his fellow Republicans out of office.

Mr. McLaughlin, whose home was in Muskegon, came to Michigan in 1864, from Beardstown, Ill., where he was born in 1858. He was graduated from the Muskegon high school, and subsequently took the literary and law course at the University of Michigan. He practiced law at Muskegon until the day he went to Congress as Representative of the Ninth Michigan district.

McLaughlin was a brother of Prof. Andrew McLaughlin, noted educator, writer and head of the history department of the University of Chicago.

Japanese Oppose
Airplane Carriers

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 29.—Japan's naval disarmament plan, soon to be submitted to the disarmament conference, proposes abolition of aircraft carriers, reduction of capital ships to 25,000 tons and of their gun calibre to 14 inches, and retention of submarines.

Vice Admiral Osami Magano disclosed these provisions today. He added that reduction in the size of cruisers and destroyers also is advocated but he would give no details. Japan also will propose prohibition of decks and platforms on capital ships from which aircraft might take off.

"Our plan," he said, "aims to fulfill the principle, to which the disarmament conference is committed, of increasing defensive arms and reducing offensive power. But we must consider the geographical situation of each country."

"We think the submarine is a defensive weapon and therefore oppose scrapping it, but we suggest reduction in its size. We do consider the aircraft carrier offensive and after abolishing that weapon we suggest that it be made impossible for other ships to be used for the same purpose."

Liquor Runner Is Held In Ogle Jail

Oregon, Nov. 29.—When Deputy Sheriff Delos Blanchard observed a car with Nebraska license plates parked on the side of the road on the Blackhawk Trail between Byron and Oregon yesterday afternoon, as he was returning to the Ogle county seat, he also observed blankets spread over the back seat.

The driver was repairing a puncture. The deputy's suspicion was aroused and he stopped to investigate further and discovered that the "tourist" was hauling a 200 gallon supply of alcohol from Milwaukee, Wis., to Lincoln, Neb. The tourist was taken to Oregon where he gave the name of Jerry Maxwell of Lincoln, Neb., and is being detained together with his consignment of holiday liquor.

Two Men Arrested
In Rochelle Raid

Rochelle, Nov. 29.—Federal prohibition agents entered the large frame building on South Main street opposite the Rochelle Town & Country Club late yesterday afternoon and conducted a search for liquor. Emilio "Pork Chops" Cicchetti and John Cicciopaglia, former Rochelle citizens, were taken in custody and escorted to Oregon where they were turned over to Sheriff Frank Murray and locked up in the county jail.

ILLINOIS GETS ANOTHER FIVE MILLION LOAN*R. F. C. Funds Loaned to Care for Needy
In December

Washington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Acting quickly on the plea of Illinois for assistance in caring for its destitute during December the Reconstruction Corporation today voted a loan of slightly less than $5,000,000 to the state.

The action was taken after Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago and a group of Illinois officials had appeared before the board.

Illinois already has received a total of $20,000,150 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The December request was about one million dollars less than was asked and received in November. Cermak said this was because several counties are now able to take care of their own situation.

Cermak told the Corporation directors that plans are under way for a state-wide sales tax to be passed at the January session of the state legislature. Though the county option sales tax passed as an emergency measure, said the mayor, is not raising sufficient money to enable the state to do its share in caring for the destitute. He estimated that the state-wide tax would raise forty to fifty million dollars in Chicago alone.

EMERSON SIGNS BILL
Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Gov. L. L. Emerson today signed the Meents bill, one of three major relief measures passed by the special session of the General Assembly. The bill permits county boards, by a two-thirds vote, to issue bonds without referendum for unemployment purposes. The debentures are payable out of the county's share of gas tax funds.

The Governor still has under consideration the other two major measures. They are the county option sales tax and the Cook county $17,000,000 bond issue measure.

In addition to signing the Meents bill Governor Emerson signed a companion measure by Senator Barr, an amendment to the gas tax law providing for the diversion of a county's share of the gas tax receipts for payment of bonds issued under Senator Meents' measure.

Bar Assn. To Seek Reforms In Courts

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Numerous reforms in Illinois courts of law are sought by the Illinois Bar Association in a legislative program announced by Harry N. Gottlieb, chairman of the committee on Civil Practices Act of the Illinois Bar Association.

The new act, planned as a means of speeding and simplifying work of the courts, has been approved by both the bar association and the committee, Gottlieb declared. The act would replace the present Practice Act and Chancery Act.

All antiquated forms would be supplanted by a plain, concise statement of the facts upon which a claim or defense is based in both law and chancery proceedings, he said.

The method of selecting and instructing jurors would be improved. Courts would be aided in forming rules by a permanent judicial advisory council.

Other changes listed by Gottlieb include procedure for summary judgment so as not to delay relief and clog the courts, provisions for preliminary procedure such as discovery hearings; and elimination of technicalities that delay and add to the expense of operation.

He said the use of declaratory judgment is provided so that a party may have a controversy settled in court to know how he may safely proceed.

New Tax Bill To Be Enacted Soon?

Washington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Because he thinks the billion dollar tax bill passed last session did not raise the expected revenue, Chairman Collier of the House Ways and Means committee today said he thought it would be "compelled to take up another tax bill after the Christmas holidays."

"The outlook is for a deficit of $800,000,000 to a billion dollars on June 30," he said to newspapermen. "Of course, that is just a guess, because we won't feel the full benefit of the new income taxes until March. But I am sure that what we get even then won't be enough to balance the budget."

Collier said his committee likely would be occupied until shortly before the Christmas recess with beer legislation.

He expressed a belief that President-elect Roosevelt ought to be allowed to start his tenure with a balanced budget, but that other taxes should be found to replace the three cent postage and the two cent levy on bank checks.

American Health
Record Is Better

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The good health record of the American people stands out as "one of the few bright spots in the past three years," Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., New York State Commissioner of Health, told the National Committee on the Cost of Medical Care here today.

Attributing the decline in the death rate to "mass movement" for public health, he declared the nation could not "go on indefinitely" drawing dividends upon past investments in individual and community health.

The voting age for men and women in England is now 21 years.

Farmers' Union Is Formed In Illinois

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Illinois division of the National Farmers' Union was launched for the second time in the state today following an organization meet yesterday at which Fred R. Wolf, of Papineau, was elected president.

The new division replaces the old organization which lost its charter more than a year ago leaders said, following charges of irregularities in the matter of collecting dues.

In addition to Wolf other officers elected by delegates from 20 counties attending the meeting, were: Fred Huls, Carthage, vice president; Mrs. Mary C. Bunche, Kankakee, secretary-treasurer; Kankakee was chosen for state headquarters.

A constitution was adopted and a list of resolutions accepted. The resolutions include several measures for farm relief and several others including one for free coinage of silver and another favoring laws limiting heirs to legacies of not more than $500,000.

Directors were named as follows: George R. Schneider, Duquoin; Charles Jings, Sutter; Claude Anthony, Wyanet; William E. Tanner, Kankakee, and L. Fred Winterroth, Champaign.

Appointments included the naming of J. E. Mallaney, Bourbonnais, and Homer Lilienbeck, Geneseo, as directors, representing the division of the Farmers' Union Livestock Commission at Chicago, and George P. Schneider as director of the Commission at East St. Louis.

Col. Zack Miller
Glad For Liberty

Maryland, Okla., Nov. 29.—(AP)—His cell unlocked by a threat of military force, Col. Zack Miller waved a plainman's thanks today to "a Governor who's got guts" and took time out to "enjoy the open spaces" of his one time empire of the range, the 101 Ranch.

Miller marched jubilantly from the Kay county jail at Newkirk yesterday at dusk, pardoned by Governor W. H. Alfalfa Bill Murray from a contempt of court conviction and an imprisonment which followed his failure to pay temporary alimony to his estranged wife, Mrs. Margaret Blevins-Miller. And more than that, the rancher said he thought the sweeping clemency order "may eliminate me" from the effect of other orders of the court, some of which have concerned the receivership under which the ranch is operated.

"I must admit," Col. Miller told a crowd of nearly a hundred friends who met him as he started home to the ranch white house, "that the jail was too confining. From now on I am going to enjoy the open spaces."

"Sunday was the longest day I ever spent. I read all the papers I could get hold of. I even read the want ads. I'm glad Oklahoma has a Governor who's got guts."

Boy Slayer Pleads
Guilty To Murder

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Sixteen-year-old Bert Arnold, hammer slayer of his step-grandmother, probably will know his fate Saturday.

He stood in a crowded court room yesterday and answered "guilty" when Judge John Prystalski asked him if he killed his relative, Mrs. Ellen Sax, 60.

The state said it would not ask the death penalty and would content itself merely with presentation of facts, leaving to the judge the matter of punishment.

Defense attorneys said they would produce testimony from alienists to show mitigating circumstances in the case.

Bert killed Mrs. Sax the night of Nov. 18 when she refused him the use of her automobile. He went to a dance with the car, returned and dumped the body into a cistern and fled. He was captured two days later at Stockton, Ill.

EARTHQUAKE IN CHILE
Santiago, Chile, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A number of persons were injured and there was considerable damage early today when an earthquake struck the province of Coquimbo. The town of Illapel apparently was in the center of the disturbance.

The shock was felt here in the capital and in the mountain villages, but there was no report of serious damage at these points.

Six newspapers printed in modern Arabic are published in New York.

BATTLE OF BEEF
CATTLE NEARING DECISION TODAY*Grand Champion Of International Show Will Be Named

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The International Livestock Show climbed toward the climax today with the field of competition between meat cattle, source of steaks, steadily narrowing.

Sharing interest with the battle of beefs was the pending announcement of 1932's corn king.

In steer judging, champions have been selected in only two breeds, Aberdeen-Angus and Red Polled steer. The former kind, black, chunky—"much in little"—has dominated the stall of grand champion steer since the Exposition began at the dawn of the century. Red Polled have never come close to this supreme honor.

Indiana, which ten times since the hay and grain show became a regular fixture of the livestock show has provided the corn king, was expected, by expert students, to clinch the title again.

Hoosier Corn Good
L. M. Vogler, Hope, Ind., who wore the crown in 1929 and 1930 is in the open contest with his sample of white corn; C. E. Troyer of Lafayette, Ind. in 1920 and 1927, is exhibiting yellow corn which has taken first in its class.

Concomitant of the corn princes, junior growers, was also expected to be announced today.

The high spots of yesterday's events was the triumph of Herman Trelle, perennial wheat king of America. The crown is becoming part of his anatomy. With a sample of hard spring wheat he won the title for the third consecutive year. Thomas Smith of Darby, Mont., was runner-up.

Other major awards in the cross department of the show yesterday were the selection of M. V. Gillett of Lexington, Neb., hay king, and Fred Hamm of Goodfame, Alta., oats king.

Judging Is Slow
Judging of breeding classes of farm animals proceeded slowly. Several bulls, boars and rams have been designated champions of their respective breeds. That's all the glory they will get at the international show. There is no inter-breed competition in the division.

"Illini Hero", University of Illinois entry, won first place in Shorthorn steers between 750-875 pounds. Illini Corporal, another state university entry, took second in the 875-1000 pound Shorthorn class, while the university also had third place winners in each of the other two Shorthorn weight classes 1000-1150 and 1150-1350.

Mathe Bros.—Mason City, Ill. took third place in 750-875 pound Shorthorn and Donald Reese of Kewanee took third place in Short-horn heavyweights.

McCleary, who has been in charge of the Red Cross Christmas Seals sale in Dixon for a number of years has again assumed direction of the annual sale this year and will have the seals for disposal at the Red Cross headquarters in the Warner building at the rear of the City National Bank, which opened this morning and which will be open daily Mondays to Fridays inclusive. The Red Cross workers will also use the headquarters to make clothing from cotton goods supplied by the National Red Cross and to be distributed among the needy of the community.

It's Going To Seem Very Cold This Year

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—It's really not going to be so abnormally cold this winter—It's just going to seem that way to Chicagoans, C. A. Donnel, Chief Meteorologist of the Government Weather Bureau, declares.

The winter probably will be a normal one with temperatures hitting the sub-zero end of the thermometers more than once, Donnel said yesterday. But it's going to seem much colder for it's been two years since Chicago has experienced any really cold weather, he added.

The forecaster recalled that the weather started warming up in February, 1930, and it's been warmer ever since. He based his predictions for genuine winter weather this year on average temperature four degrees below normal so far this month compared to an average reading of 9.9 degrees above normal last November.

Supply And Demand
Law Was Effective

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—W. F. Jensen, manager of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers, declared today that the law of supply and demand is a better operative in business than the government.

Appearing before the annual convention of the association with his yearly report, Jensen said action of the butter market was convincing proof that if the law of supply and demand is allowed to operate unhindered by governmental manipulation, surpluses can be taken care of.

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Seats on the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago and New York stock exchanges may not be assessed as personal property until the Illinois Supreme Court decides their status as assessable property. Circuit Judge William V. Brothers has ruled.

Issuing an order to Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday, the court restrained him from assessing the memberships. Jacobs placed the value of a Board of Trade seat at $4,875; one in the Chicago Stock Exchange at $7,400 and in the New York Exchange at $11,000.

The restraining order affects personal property assessments amounting to $5,000,000, he said.

DOMINANT ISSUE

The assurance was given by Joseph Paganon, Under Secretary of State, after Louis Marin, the Conservative leader, had protested that France should not pay more than she gets from Germany.

M. Marin was persuaded to abandon his insistence on general debate on the promise that the debate would be held within 48 hours.

"Let us give tariff advantages to the United States," he said, "against advantages they give, but we can never undertake customs negotiations nor any other negotiations under the pressure of the debt question."

The Deputy said France had already paid the United States more than the price of the war stock, which sold for less than half France paid for it.

THREE FIRE CALLS

The fire department was called to the Illinois Central freight depot this morning at 9:30 where a refrigerator car loaded with merchandise caught fire from some unknown cause. The blaze was extinguished with only slight damage to the car and the contents were undamaged.

Shortly after noon yesterday the department was summoned to the 800 block on Broadway street, where a small building owned by Joe Debruno and occupied by Tony Cantagello was badly damaged by fire of unknown origin. The occupant had been absent about 20 minutes when neighbors discovered the fire. The interior was damaged together with the contents. Cause of the blaze being undetermined.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the department made a run to East River street near Ravine avenue, where weeds and brush had caught fire near the Standard Oil company bulk station. The fire was extinguished without damage.

Social Welfare
Conference Opens

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 29—(AP)—The Illinois Conference on Social Welfare opened today with a plea by John C. Weigel of the Chicago Institute of Juvenile Research for occupational therapy in treatment of handicapped persons.

Weigel said a display of handicrafts, posters, photographs, and woodcraft was proof of the value of teaching gainful occupations to the insane, feeble minded, blind, deaf, and otherwise handicapped.

"This work is not designed particularly for the men and women to attain quality," Weigel said, "but rather to lead them to contentment and security."

The first general session of the conference was scheduled for tonight with the Rev. Frederick Siebenburg of Detroit speaking on "The Charter of Human Securities."

Dr. Frank Bruno, president of the National Conference on Social Work, was to be another speaker.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson and Rodney H. Brandon, Director of the State Department of Public Welfare, were expected to attend some of the sessions. Governor-elect Henry Horner sent word he would be unable to attend the annual conference dinner Wednesday night.

Killer Thought He Might Be Revived

San Francisco, Nov. 29—(AP)—The possibility Everett T. Mull, executed in the Nevada gas chamber, may have faced the ordeal with a hope of "cheating death" was voiced here today by Dr. J. C. Geiger, San Francisco City Health Officer.

Dr. Geiger said he had been authorized by Mull's relatives in North Carolina to take charge of the body after yesterday's execution "for experimental purposes."

A Morganton, North Carolina, firm of attorneys, Dr. Geiger said, asked him to attempt to revive the executed man with an antidote to the poison used in the death chamber. The request was made at the suggestion of Mull from his death cell.

"If it was a hope, it was a fantastic one," Dr. Geiger said.

Urges Farmers To Advertise Produce

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Development of foreign markets for surplus farm crops received major attention today as agricultural relief was discussed by state commissioners and Secretaries of agriculture at their annual convention.

Commissioner Stuart Pierson of Illinois urged that new markets be found abroad, particularly in the Orient, and that by advertising farmers increase the domestic consumption of their crops.

Statesmen and diplomats were challenged to recapture foreign farm markets by Secretary J. C. Mohler of Kansas.

"We must either start selling again to foreign customers abroad or we must cut down our production to domestic needs," he said.

"The latter is unthinkable."

Pierson also discussed tariffs, but held that high rates in Europe are not retaliatory against the United States but instead were designed to encourage European farmers.

Urging "more advertising and favorable publicity" for farm products, Pierson said that American habits are changing and that heavy meals are not being eaten.

"Too many men are idle and unable to buy enough food," he said. "Too many others are able to but don't eat abundantly."

Virginia Macomber And Alexander McFarlain Are Married

A Washington, D. C. paper of Nov. 9 had the following account of the marriage of Miss Virginia Macomber of that city, whose mother, Mrs. R. E. Macomber, was a former Dixon lady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown:

The Petworth Baptist Church was the scene of a charmingly arranged wedding last evening when Miss Virginia Macomber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Macomber, became the bride of Mr. Alexander C. McFarlain, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McFarlain of New Orleans. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock, the Rev. H. J. Smith officiating.

The church was effectively decorated with pale yellow and white chrysanthemums mingled with red oak leaves, palms and ferns. As the guests were assembling organ selections were given and preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Eugene Head sang "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me."

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory white velvet, made with a cowl neckline, and long sleeves puffed to the elbow where they formed deep cuffs. Her tulle veil fell from a cape of tulle with a chin strap and she carried white roses, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Jean L. Macomber, sister-in-law of the bride, was the matron of honor in a gown of gold-velvet and carrying yellow Joanna Hill roses.

The other attendants were Miss Eleanor Ellis, Miss Helen Grindle, Miss Pattie Reville and Mrs. Doris McAllister. They wore frocks of velvet, in shades of green and carried bouquets of Talsman roses.

Mr. Richard Bedell was the best man and the ushers were Lewis Fuchs, Raymond W. Macomber, brother of the bride, Edward Quinn and Mrs. Robert Sharp.

A small reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, for the wedding party. The couple later left for a wedding trip and will be at home after November 15, at 7701 Georgia avenue.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McFarlain, parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. H. A. Brown of International Falls, Minn., grandmother of the bride; Mrs. M. Manning and Miss Helen Manning of New Orleans, and Mrs. J. M. Batchelder of Dixon, Ill.

Among those who gave pre-nuptial parties for the bride were Miss Eleanor Ellis, Miss Pauline Grindle, Miss Helen Grindle, Mrs. Raymond W. Macomber, Miss Alice Caughey, Mrs. Sadie Caughey, Mr. and Mrs. Macomber, parents of the bride, entertained the wedding party at a buffet supper preceding following the rehearsal for the wedding.

Social Affairs In Amboy Were Happy

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Wolcott entertained eighteen of their friends at their home with a three course dinner Thanksgiving evening in honor of Miss Eva Scottion, and Miss Lucille Lickly of Waukegan, Wis., who were then guests from Wednesday and Friday. This was a complete surprise for their daughter, Marjorie, who returned home that evening from the University of Illinois, where she is a senior this year.

The color scheme for the dinner was in the holiday colors of red and green, which was carried out in the menu as well as in the table and home decorations. The dining table was lighted with red tapers in green candle sticks, the nut baskets, favors and fancy caps worn by the guests were in the same colors. There were turkey placecards and three miniature turkeys were roosting in a small tree which was adorned with clusters of red berries and formed the centerpiece. Kernels of red corn were at the base of this tree.

Original rhymes written on the place cards were read by the guests causing much merriment, as they told of things for which the guests were thankful.

Various guessing games and stunts, also music were enjoyed during the evening. Prizes were won by Eunice Olinger, Eva Scottion, Byron Lott and Doris Green. In the few small hours of Thursday morning the guests departed having spent a very pleasant evening.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Milton Vaupel, Clara Aschenbrenner, Harvey Reitz, and Otto Schade all of Ashton; Byron Lott of Bloomington, Frank Mynard, of Lillipolis, Ill., Eva Scottion, Lucille Lickly of Waukegan, Wis., Zula Miller, Doris Green, Howard Hillson, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Dietelhoff, Warren Mynard and Eunice Olinger of Amboy.

Whitney Trio To Present Concert Here Monday Eve

One of the outstanding concerts arranged for local music lovers by the Dixon Civic Music Ass'n. is the forthcoming recital by the Whitney Trio, which is to be presented Monday evening.

The Whitney Trio, which has gained an international reputation during the past few years, is composed of members of one family, two sisters and a brother. Noeline Whitney plays the violin, Grace Whitney the cello, and Robert Whitney the piano. They are descended from a long line of distinguished musicians, broken by only one exception, a great-grandfather who was a famous Shakespearean actor in his day.

All of the Whitney children were taught to play the piano at the same time that they learned their A. B. C's and multiplication tables, and they had their first experience in ensemble playing when they performed six hand arrangements of popular classics which their mother selected for them. As they grew older they were encouraged to learn other instruments, also. Robert remained faithful to the piano, however, while his sisters respectively to the violin and cello. In time they began to play trio arrangements of the melodies of Schubert, Brahms, and other composers, and in time they turned to the more exacting repertoire of chamber music. Before any of the players were out of their teens they had gained professional recognition and were supplying music for weddings, receptions and other social functions.

In 1922, when radio programs were still in a stage of primary development, the Whitney Trio persuaded a leading Chicago radio station that there was a demand for regular chamber music recitals on the air. They were engaged and were a success from the start. Their fan mail increased from month to month and for the succeeding ten years their performances on the radio took place at regular intervals.

As a special feature during a recent winter, they placed the entire cycle of Beethoven trios, an achievement which attracted comment in the music journals and the press at large.

Between radio engagements the Trio played from time to time in Chicago concert halls, and in 1926 they were engaged to appear as guests artists with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at Ravinia Park.

Largely through the great following which they have developed as a result of their radio performances, the Whitney Trio has recently been much sought after by local concert managers throughout the country, and this year the artists are fulfilling a long desire to make an extensive concert tour.

The programs which the Trio will play on this tour will be comprised of masterpieces by Beethoven, Tchaikovsky, and other famous composers along with some of the lighter diversissements which have had the greatest popularity with the radio audiences.

IF THE GIFT IS LASTING
the Sentiment is lasting

NATURALLY, if your gift is a temporary thing that is soon worn out or used up, the sentiment which inspired it is soon forgotten. If you want your good wishes to live on for years—give a lasting gift.

Our stocks of distinctive gifts are made up almost entirely of articles of that kind. Fine watches... the newest jewelry... unusual novelties... and many accessories of precious metal such as watch bands, belt buckles, tie and collar clasps, bearing the famous name—Wadsworth!

And the surprising part of it is that most of these gifts cost no more than others which are soon forgotten. Come in and look around—soon!

Calls Americans Poorest Epicures

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Uncle Sam is the world's poorest epicure among civilized races.

Yet his "Adam and Eve on a raft—wreck 'em," his hotdogs, his hot roast beef sandwiches with mashed potatoes are changing the menus of nations where fine cooking has been an art for centuries.

That said Joseph D. Vehling of Chicago, is the situation as professional chefs the globe over see it. Vehling as food editor of "The Nation's Chefs" is active in the second national culinary art salon held this week by the Chefs Cuisine Association of Chicago.

"Americans don't know nor appreciate good cooking as a fine art—they never have," said Vehling. "The nearest they came to it was in the years around 1830," and to the Puritans, who decided eating for the palate's sake, was attributed much of the blame.

In addition, he said, prohibition, with the resulting fad of hard liquor cocktails and highballs, has further blunted America's palate. America sits down to a meal that really taxes the cook's skill on the average of three or four times a year—Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's and special celebrations. The rest of the time, he said, it is merely a process of three meals a day.

Children Should Help At Home, Too.

"Jimmy, I wish you would turn off the radio—I have such a terrible headache!"

"Aw, Mom, it is the football game. I tried to get it over at Aunt Ann's and she made me turn it off, too."

"I'm sorry, dear, but my head is splitting and I'm terribly nervous."

"Couldn't you go upstairs—Oh, Mom, there goes Summers again. He's just made another touchdown. That makes it 14 to nothing."

His mother saw the intense look on her son's face. Hands to temples she went upstairs and shut the door, but the monotonous boom-boom of the announcer's voice with its recurring periods of excited triumph were even more maddening than the noise below stairs.

But she stood it. After all, Jimmy was just a boy. What did he know of sick headaches?

And Then the Band

Fifteen minutes more and it was over. The blare of a band took the place of the football game.

She managed to call over the bannister, "Jimmy, will you turn the radio off now, please?"

"Just a minute, Mom. They're playing—"

She was too sick to wait for the name. She tumbled back on her bed again wishing she had the electric pad for the back of her neck and a cool cloth for her forehead.

The headache was much worse. John and Jimmy would have to go over to Ann's for their dinner. She was too sick to get it. She wished John would come home and get the things she needed.

Jimmy burst into the room. He had forgotten to turn off the band. "Jimmy, will you get—"

Off To Excitement

"Say, Mom, I'm going down to watch the wall come down. They are tearing down the old hotel and you can see it from Dick's rather office window. Dick's waiting outside, I'll be back in a little while."

He was gone. The radio was still on. The front door did not bang. He had left it wide open.

It was cold and the furnace was out. She was freezing. The door would have to be closed and that radio shut off.

Could she make it? She was violently sick now, and dizzy. She got downstairs somehow, and attended to things. But she couldn't get upstairs again.

John came in and found her lying in the dark, ice-cold and almost past speaking.

Spoiled by Martyrdom
"Where's Jimmy?" were his first words.

She moved a hand weakly.

"Didn't he come home from his school? Why didn't you keep him here? He's old enough to be of some help."

She murmured, "He's just a little boy. Don't scold."

But John scolded. "You teach him to bow and scrape and pull out your chair at the table. You see that he is most polite to you in public. But at home he doesn't give you as much thought as you would give a pup. It's your fault. Children are like savages sometimes. You have to put the screws on them to make them feel anything at all. I'll fix him, the selfish little devil."

I believe he was right. Martyrdom on our part is often the quickest way to spoil a child. Jimmy should have been made to help.

A GOOD SYSTEM GOES WRONG.

The American people have seldom been wiser than they were when they invented the parole board. And they have seldom been more foolish than they have been in their method of handling the parole board after they got it invented.

Seldom was there a greater gap between theory and performance. Seldom has it been more clearly proved that the best governmental institution will not work, in a democracy, unless it falls into the hands of wise and conscientious men who are fully supported by an enlightened public opinion.

All of this comes to mind as a result of the sad experience which the state of Ohio has had recently.

In the past month Ohio has had three murders, two of them more than commonly atrocious, committed by paroled ex-convicts.

Each of the paroled men had been out of prison only a short time when he took a life. In each case it is very easy to see—now—that the parole was a tragic mistake. And in each case all that Ohio can do about it is punish the guilty man and hope that it won't happen again.

Unfortunately, such incidents—and every state has similar ones—lead to a general outcry against the parole system itself. The public sees thugs at large committing new crimes long before their original sentences have expired, and quite naturally it wonders if the parole system isn't a mistake from start to finish.

What it fails to see is that it isn't the system so much as it is our way of handling it that is all wrong.

The parole system is everything that its supporters claim—or it would be if it were properly administered. No iron-clad system of rigid sentences can fail to work injustice. The parole system tries to make criminal procedure elastic enough to provide justice for all.

But we have left it, largely, to run itself; which means that politics has got in its fine hand and made a mess of things. What we need to do now is to revamp our method of administering the parole system. Our own heedlessness is what is really the matter.

EXPENSE AND THE NAVY.

The American government's threat to build the navy up to the London treaty limits if foreign nations do not agree to do something drastic about disarmament is not a threat that is very apt to be put into execution.

The citizens of this country are pretty well agreed that a large, well-equipped fleet is an essential part of national policy; but they are, at the present moment, also agreed that strict governmental economy is a vital necessity. A reduction of government expenditures is one of the things the American people are prepared to insist on; and such a reduction cannot be had if the navy's size is to be radically increased.

Building up to treaty limits would probably cost at least a billion dollars. With the treasury already showing a deficit of half a billion, there is little chance that the nation will approve any very startling increase in the naval budget.

A PRACTICAL AIR PLAN.

It is interesting to read that the Germans who are projecting a commercial transatlantic air service have discarded the notion of building colossal floating airdromes, to be anchored in midocean as stopping places for airplanes, and have decided to rely on regular aircraft carriers instead.

A few years ago, when transatlantic flights were first engrossing public attention, elaborate plans for those airdromes were drawn up. They were to be the largest floating objects ever constructed, they were to house marine hotels and machine shops and heaven knows what not, and they were to become very common just as soon as overseas air lines were established.

But they didn't, somehow, ever look quite practical to the ordinary observer. We just couldn't believe in them. It isn't exactly surprising to learn that the first airline will go back to the ordinary aircraft carrier.

America will never—at least for a long time—return to the insane boom times of 1929 and as soon as that fact is realized our fight against the depression will be won.—John N. Willys, Toledo, O., auto manufacturer.

We regard a football championship as incidental. It is encouraging to know that our team gets victories over the strongest opponents—encouraging in the same degree as it is to have our debaters and orators win.—Dr. Rufus Bernhard von Klein Smid, president, University of California.

With a tax of $6 a barrel on our beer, the hoodlum wouldn't be able to sell his graft encumbered stuff to the American people, even at the point of a gun.—George P. McCabe, general counsel for the Associated Producers of Cereal Beverages.

I think war in Europe is unlikely.—Gen. John J. Pershing, on return from Europe.

Leisure Time Groups Seen As Bar To Social Evils

Judge Herbert G. Cochran

The recreational agencies are, he said, "they're the best form of social insurance, and those who would scrap them during the present emergency utterly fail to comprehend the necessity for constructive action against delinquency. This was the forcefully expressed opinion of Judge Henry G. Cochran of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, Norfolk, Va., over which he has presided for seven years.

Judge Cochran's work in the Norfolk court has led to his interest in allied fields. Last year he served on the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, and this summer, with Dean Miller of Duke University, he conducted an Institute of Criminology at the University of Southern California.

"To do nothing to prevent crime and social waste and to deal only with the end—products and results of such failure in the form of delinquent boys and girls and adult criminals is both shortsighted and unintelligent," Judge Cochran declared. "Moreover, it is far more costly."

Agencies like the Boy and Girl Scouts, Judge Cochran said, are a fine form of social insurance.

"By keeping the children happily, healthfully and constructively occupied," he said, "they remove the courses of the mischief which keep our juvenile courts busy and cost the taxpayers so much money. In times such as the present, with the consequent stress and strain the need for such agencies is all the greater."

Judge Cochran highly approves the Scout program with its ethical basis for the building of character and its cultural activities, which, in the form of play, help both in the general education and vocational guidance of the boys and girls.

"If I had any criticism to make of the Boy and Girl Scouts," said Judge Cochran, "it would be that they do not reach on a sufficiently large scale the underprivileged children of the country, or the more privileged either for that matter. Boys and girls growing up in undesirable neighborhoods do not get enough Scouting. Of course, it is difficult to organize the program in localities which do not provide natural leaders."

As a solution of the leadership problem Judge Cochran suggested closer cooperation with settlement houses.

"There are neighborhoods in Norfolk and no doubt in lots of other American cities," Judge

The hotytots were strange to see. In fact, as funny as could be. Their little bodies made the Times stare and laugh out loud.

Said Scouty, "My, but they are fat and each one wears a broad-brimmed hat. In other places I don't think such hats would be allowed."

"Do you suppose that we're safe here, or is there something we should fear? Perhaps the little hotytots will shortly injure us."

"Out of the crater they all crawled and now upon the ground they're sprawling. I wonder if they're resting or they start an awful fuss?"

One of the hotytots had heard wee Scouty—every single word. He stood up and then answered, "Why, we are a friendly lot."

"We'd be real glad to play with you and do whatever you want to do. We came out of the crater 'cause the place grew much too hot."

Then Windy ran up very near and said, "As long as we are here we're going to stay until we find out if you'll treat us fair."

"Start right in now to have your fun and we will join you, one by one."

Catarrrhal Deafness Can Be Relieved
Persons suffering from catarrrhal deafness or head noises due to catarrrh will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected relief after other treatments have failed.
Secure from Rowland's Pharmacy or your druggist one ounce of Parminit (Double Strength). Take this home and add 1/2 pint hot water and a little sugar. A tablespoonful four times a day should stop distressing catarrrhal head noises, improve hearing, make breathing easier and dry up mucous discharge. All catarrrh sufferers need Parminit.—Adv.

Cochran concluded, "where the work of the courts could be substantially reduced if the Scout program could be introduced on anything like an adequate scale. The court in Norfolk has, we know, reduced by one-half, the amount of the more serious forms of crime during the period of its existence, and less than one percent of those dealt with eventually reach the criminal courts. The character-building and other recreational organizations have materially aided in this result. If and when we arrive at the point where we will spend more in supporting adequately these agencies, we will not have to spend such tremendous sums in dealing with their products—at present more than $100 per capita for every man, woman and child in the nation, or some thirteen billions of dollars."

HI-HO! IT'S FUN FOR ALL THE FAMILY

There's fun for every member of the family in HI-HO, the fascinating new puzzle-game which is rapidly becoming a nation-wide fad. It's just the thing for home entertainment these long winter evenings for it is simple enough for the children to play, yet sufficiently intriguing to intrigue the grown-ups. In today's Telegraph.

EUGENE T. GIERING, EDITOR OF THE WILKES-BARRE (PA.) RECORD, SAYS:

"If newspaper advertising were relatively of small value it would not have kept pace with the growth of business in the United States; it would have been discarded long ago. It was never more extensively used than today."

"It would require pages of this newspaper to reproduce testimony voluntarily given by many of the most prominent business men of the country."

"If he had not engaged in a consistent advertising campaign the man who started a small dairy farm with meat products in one of the western states and eventually attracted thousands of customers from a wide area, extending to the Atlantic seaboard, would never have been heard from beyond a few miles from his place of business. Such instances might be cited in thousands of cases."

"Advertising must be constant and consistent. The newspaper reader who sees an advertisement day after day is impressed. It sticks in his or her mind. The thought is that if a merchant can afford to advertise extensively day after day he must be doing a prosperous business."

"There is also the fact that advertising must be truthful. Years ago much of it was exaggerated. Today the tendency is to live up to definite promises. That establishes good faith between the merchant and the customer."

"Look over your community. You will find that the most successful merchants are those who speak to the people in the columns of the newspaper. That is why advertising has grown so extensively in the past twenty-five years."

Daily Health Talk

PNEUMONIA—I

During the months from October to May a person suffering a sudden severe chill, lasting from 15 to 30 minutes, followed within a few hours by an agonizing pain in the side and a short, dry, painful cough with rapid and difficult breathing, should think of the possibility of pneumonia.

These symptoms may precede some other less serious condition, but when they appear the sufferer should go to bed at once and call for medical help.

If it is pneumonia, then the earliest treatment is instituted the better the chance for recovery.

Pneumonia is a serious debilitant disease, the importance of which cannot be overestimated. Like heart disease, pneumonia is a conglomerate condition. By this we mean that, while one organ or set of organs is affected, the causes of the disease are multiple.

Pneumonia may be caused by a variety of agencies. The most important pneumonias are caused by the pneumococcus germs. Of these germs there are a number of varieties, and the severity of pneumonia, to an appreciable extent, depends upon what type of pneumonia germs is responsible.

Pneumonia germs are classified into types one, two, three and four. Types one and two are clearly defined. The other two groups include a number of secondary types.

Pneumonia is an infectious disease. One contracts it, but it appears that the germ is not, under ordinary circumstances, competent in itself to cause an acute development of the disease.

There are other contributing causes of a general and important nature. These may all be grouped under the heading of debilitating factors. Anything which lowers the vitality of the body is a factor predisposing to pneumonia.

Such factors may include excessive fatigue, undue exposure to cold, bad nutrition, injury, suffering from other diseases, notably colds, and the like. Alcoholism is considered one of the most potent predisposing conditions.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS STAR EASTERN TEAMS SELECTED BY THE SCRIBES

Pittsburgh, Penn. Army and Cornell Share Top
Honors On Teams

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Pittsburgh, Penn. Army and Cornell, Penn. share top honors, each contributing two men to the mythical all-eastern football team picked annually by The Associated Press today by sports writers.

One representative each from Columbia, Fordham and Colgate, the latter the sole undefeated, unscathed upon team in the section, round out the first team.

Group honors for the second team went to Brown, with three nominees, but as a whole the choices for the reserve eleven were more widely scattered. Columbia placed two men on the second team, Army, Cornell, Pittsburgh, Fordham, Yale and Villanova one each.

Apparently the severe injury of King, Army's great end who suffered a broken leg in the Harvard game, alone kept the Cadets from placing three men on the first team.

As it was King, rated almost unanimously by the experts as the greatest end in the country up to the time of his injury, trailed just far enough behind Joe Skaldany, Pitt's burly wingman, and Jose Martinez-Zorrilla, the Mexican jumping jack of Cornell, to slip to the second team along with Tony Matal, fiery, red-headed Columbia end.

Fifty Writers Voted
The ballots of fifty sports writers chose a backfield that would delight the eyes of any coach in the nation.

At quarterback the scribes placed Cliff Montgomery, the limber-hipped Columbia ball carrier, a splendid passer, kicker, field general along with his ability as a broken field runner. Montgomery was the general first string choice over Bob Chase, Brown quarterback, and received more votes than any other back named.

To run with Montgomery from the halfback positions the experts chose Warren Heller, mainstay of the Pittsburgh offense, and volatile little "Pick" Vidal of Army, who ran wild all season until stopped short by Notre Dame Saturday. There was little opposition to the choice of Captain Bart Viviano of Cornell for fullback, a powerhouse back whose line plunging and tackling have been features of the Ithacans play for three years.

Overshadow Others
"Howie" Colechewer, a big fast tackle, and Roy Engle, great defensive center, both Pennsylvania stalwarts, were far in front in the votes for the line positions. Milton Summerfelt, Army guard and Captain, also overshadowed his opposition.

Walter Uzdevinis, Fordham tackle who was in every minute of all his team's games this season, was paired with Colechewer at tackle. Bob "Kewpie" Smith, Colgate captain and brilliant running guard, was picked to team with Summerfelt.

For the first time since the naming of all-easterns began, two brothers, Arthur and Bill Gilbane, at fullback, and Tom Gilbane at center, both of Brown, made the second team, along with Bob Chase, the Bruin quarterback.

In the second team backfield, Bob Lassiter, Yale's outstanding ball carrier, and George "Whitey" Fendler of Villanova, won the backfield nominations over such stars as "Whitey" Ask of Colgate; Don Kellett, Penn; Mike Sebastian, Pittsburgh; Jack Chickard of Harvard; Chung Hoon, Navy; and Kenau Fields of Army.

Ralph Wolfendene of Fordham and Steve Granda, Columbia captain, were awarded the second team guard posts with "Abe" George of Cornell and Frank Walton of Pittsburgh, two massive linemen, at the tackles.

Mc WILLIAM BRAUCHER
Outrushed and outgained in several of its conference games this year, Michigan still maintains the unbeaten, untied record of a Big Ten champion. The answer is smartness — plus Coach Harry K. Kipke.

Especially in the Princeton and Ohio State games Michigan demonstrated slick football. Ohio State outrushed the Wolverines all through the game, but Michigan won, 14 to 0. Princeton made 11 first downs against Michigan's four, and outgained the Wolverine machine 41 yards to nine on forward passes. Yet Michigan won, 14 to 7.

OVERCOMING YARDS—
It was the same story in the Northwestern game. Michigan made 87 yards on five first downs, against the Purple's 105 yards in 11 first downs. Minnesota also outgained the Wolverines, 123 yards against 85.

Quarterback Harry Newman played a very important part in keeping Michigan's record clean. His passing, kicking and running have made him the quarterback on the All-America team without a doubt. Young Newman deserves a lot of credit for both courage and judgment. His name must be ranked with that of Friedman. He may even be better than Friedman. Certainly he is as good as Benny ever was.

But Newman is not the whole story of the Michigan football team. He is more a result than a cause. The patient building by one man has made Michigan high and mighty in football. The man

HANLEYLOOKING OVER PLAYERSTO PLAY IN 'FRISCO

Invitations To Stars
Withheld Until After Dec. 3

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Twelve midwest football stars will be invited by Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern to play in the annual east-west Shrine hospital benefit game against far western aces at San Francisco January 2. Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate will name eleven eastern players to complete the squad.

Invitations will be held up until after the Western Conference meeting at Chicago December 2-3, as there is still a chance that Michigan may receive and accept a bid to play in the Tournament of Roses game the same day at Pasadena, Calif. Should this occur, Hanley would have to locate another quarterback as Harry Newman, Wolverine pilot, is his first choice.

The rest of the prospective squad all of whom are seniors, is: ends, Paul Moss, Purdue, and Dick Fencil, Northwestern; tackles, Joe Kurth, Notre Dame, and Marshall Wells, Minnesota; guards, Dick Smith, Ohio State, Jim Harris, Notre Dame, and Bob Gonyea, Northwestern; center, John Oehler, Purdue; halfbacks, Pug Rentner, Northwestern, and Gil Berry, Illinois; fullback, Roy Horismann, Purdue.

The squad will assemble at Evanston December 19, and should Colgate receive the Rose Bowl assignment, the Raiders and all stars probably will make the trip west and work together.

Four other players are under consideration, but are not likely to accept as they are basketball and track men, and would become ineligible by playing in the east-west game. They are: Ivan Williamson, Michigan, and Bradbury Robinson, Minnesota; ends, Lew Hinchman, Ohio State, halfback, and Greg Kabat, Wisconsin guard.

Carnera Strong To Keep Self Working

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Things being the way they are in the boxing business, Primo Carnera is taking no chances on overlooking a chance for employment, even as a substitute.

Carnera came to Chicago last week to fight with King Levinsky, but the bout was postponed from Nov. 30 to Dec. 9, due to the latter's illness.

He was on his way to St. Louis today to fill in for Tuffy Griffiths against John Schwake, St. Louis heavyweight, Friday night. Griffiths was forced to withdraw because of an injury suffered in training.

Primo will be back in time to finish training for the Levinsky bout.

DEATH TOLL OF FOOTBALL NOT AS HIGH IN '32

Most Of Fatal Injuries In H. S., Sandlot Contests

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Football's death toll for 1932 had reached 37 today, the second highest total since national records on gridiron fatalities first were compiled.

The drastic changes made in the football code after last year's record number of 50 fatalities apparently have cut appreciably into the deaths and serious injuries where they have been strictly enforced. This year's list of football dead shows only five from college ranks and of these only one was fatally injured in actual competition. He was Ralph McClure of Colorado College, whose neck was broken in a game against the University of Colorado.

Most of the fatalities of the season now drawing to a close occurred in high school or sandlot contests where strict supervision often is not possible.

In addition to the five college players fatally injured, there were 17 high school and 15 sandlot, semipro or club team player fatalities.

Eight of the 37 victims died of broken necks; six from head injuries other than fractured skulls which took five more lives. Five others died of infections following injury. Internal injuries and cerebral hemorrhage each were charged with three deaths. The remaining fatalities were due to scattering causes, spinal injuries, heart ailments, etc.

SETS UP SCHOOL—

Michigan lost under his coaching at first, Purdue, Ohio State and Illinois took the Wolverines over the hurdles. A cry went up for his head.

It was then that Kipke started his school for quarterbacks. Harry Newman is a product of that school.

Kipke's quarterbacking course has held forth twice a week from December to June. The principal text used has been Yost's "little black book" containing notes on such famous stars of other years as Weeks, Uteritz, Rockwell and Friedman.

Professor Kipke's school, it appears to this writer, is the answer to the smart football Michigan plays. It is a well educated team.

DIXON AMATEURS ON SHORT END OF FOUR RING BOUTS

McReynolds and Peterson Only Local Boys To Get The Nod

Dixon amateurs came out on the short end of four of the six bouts held last evening under the auspices of the Dixon Athletic Club. Kid McReynolds and Bill Peterson were successful while George Carlson, Glen Rutherford, Clark Roush and Fred "Killer" Hess lost the decisions in their scraps. The card was witnessed by a large crowd.

In the windup, at 147 pounds, Kid McReynolds whipped Herman Moll of Chillicothe taking the affair on a technical knockout. The Dixon "Kid" was at his best Monday night unloosing all the amazing speed which he possesses in abundance. He was all over Moll to an easy victory. In the second round Moll went to the canvas for a nine count and later in the same stanza repeated for three beats. At the end of the second round the contest was called and McReynolds had another victim on his list.

A close decision was rendered in the semi-windup when George Carlson bowed to Delbert Lipson of Chillicothe. It was anyone's fight for the first round with Carlson throwing leather and Lipson stopping it. In the next round Lipson mixed his defensive tactics with some punching of his own. Carlson was the better boxer of the two but Lipson landed enough to receive the nod. The boys met at 120 pounds.

At 155 pounds "Killer" Hess met his conqueror in Calvin Ramsey of Chillicothe. Early in the scrap Hess was hitting hard when Ramsey pulled a fast one. Using a terrific right hand he upset Hess for a count of one in the first round. Coming out for the second set to Hess went to the floor three times for counts of three, three and two respectively. Ramsey sent him down all four times with the same right hand punch. The bout was halted near the end of the second and Ramsey won on a technical K. O.

A good bout was the third when Jack Roush of Dixon lost to Jim Scott of Chillicothe. Roush was building up a nice lead in the first when suddenly Scott had him down for a count. This proved a powerful influence in the verdict as Roush could not retaliate with enough to win.

A pair of middleweights, Bill Peterson of Dixon and Robert Stern of Chillicothe entertained in the second bout. Both exhibited nice defensive games. It was a good bout all the way with Peterson taking the honors. As an opener Glen Rutherford of Dixon, in his second start in the ring, lost to Earl Kellen of Amboy. These 155 pounders gave the crowd something to yell about after a slow first round. Kellen had the Dixon boy on the verge of a knockout on two occasions but failed to follow up his advantage. Kellen easily grabbed the decision.

ZUPPKE THINKS BERRY IS BEST BACK IN NATION

Illinois Coach Glad To Escape Alumni Anvil Chorus

Cleveland, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bob Zuppke, famous gridiron mentor of the University of Illinois, has no delusions about running a college football team.

Despite his many years of brilliant success with the Illini, Zuppke considers himself lucky that the alumni are not raising a serious "anvil chorus" over the present team's unfortunate season.

"I have a small team and that saved me," Zuppke said while visiting Cleveland yesterday. "If they can see with the bare eye that team is small, it is O. K. But if you have big men and they make a good picture and you don't win games, you're out of luck."

Zuppke holds that it is not fair to criticize coaches who have ill luck with teams of big players, for often the "big ones aren't any better than the little ones," he said.

As for Gil Berry, star of the 1932 Illini team, Zuppke asserted, "I think he's the best back in the country."

M'FARLAND IS SLATED FOR A STATE POSITION

Former Great Boxer To Be Named By Gov.-Elect

Chicago, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Packey McFarland, contender for the world's lightweight championship 20 years ago, is slated to become a member of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, when Governor-elect Henry Horner assumes office January 15.

Reports were current today that McFarland's name is being given serious consideration, along with George Lytton, wealthy merchant, former amateur boxer of renown, and one of the judges of the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Soldier Field.

Since retiring from the ring, McFarland, once a slim waisted youngster of 135 pounds, has blossomed into a 200-pounder. He was famed as the "pride of the stock yards" and frequently has been called the greatest fighter who failed to win a championship. He boxed in the days of Joe Gans, Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast, but was unable to make the lightweight limit which was then 133 pounds.

In recent years, McFarland has engaged in business ventures in Joliet, Ill., new his home, and amassed a fortune in real estate and other enterprises. At one time he was vice president of a Joliet bank.

McFarland, now about 43 years old, has devoted considerable time to the activity of the Catholic

Hard Times Felt In Patent Office

Washington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Inventors may be inventing with all the vision and zeal they possessed in 1929, but they are not asking for as many patents to protect their brainchild.

Thomas E. Robertson, Commissioner of Patents, in lamenting that his bureau is feeling the pinch of hard times most keenly, said 10,631 fewer applications were filed in the 1932 fiscal year as compared with 1931, and that they had dropped off 200 a week in the last five months.

But he firmly believes business will pick up soon, pointing out that large corporations which formerly patented everything they manufactured as a matter of insurance, have only temporarily discontinued the practice.

The fellow working at his bench and gadgets in some old garret probably has been discouraged by the higher fees Congress placed on applications last summer, but the fact that there are fewer applications means he now has to wait so long for final action.

DELICIOUS CEREAL OVERCOMES COMMON CONSTIPATION

ALL-BRAN Provides "Bulk," Vitamin B and Iron

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN meets a basic need of the American dietary. It supplies "bulk"—so helpful in correcting common constipation. In eleven years, ALL-BRAN has won millions of satisfied users.

New tests show added reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN. Laboratory experiments prove that, in addition to "bulk," it provides vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from constipation can be overcome by this pleasant cereal. How much better than using pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN is mild. Its "bulk" is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Another benefit of ALL-BRAN is that it has twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. Tempting recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NEW PRESIDENT FACES A BUDGET FRAMED BY FOES

Will Probably Be the Last Time Condition
Will Prevail

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Faced by prospect of having the governmental budget for the first fiscal year of his administration framed by Republicans, Franklin D. Roosevelt has begun an extensive study of national budgetary matters and his conferences this week will largely revolve around that job.

The President-elect is in the position of having pointed several times during his campaign to the Democratic platform pledge of a 25 per cent reduction in governmental expenditures and yet having all of the outlays that will be made during the first year of his administration drafted by a Budget Bureau Chief and presented by a President of the opposite party to a Congress of divided control.

The forthcoming short session will pass the appropriation bills that allocate the funds for the operation of the government until the end of June, 1934 but it is likely that will be the last time an incoming President will be faced with such a situation.

The constitutional amendment designed to abolish so-called lame duck sessions of Congress and shorten the time between the election and inauguration of a President already has been approved by many states.

Already the President-elect has talked with Speaker Garner and with Representative Byrne of Tennessee, chairman of the House Appropriations committee. Yesterday he went over the situation with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

PROPOSALS FOR FARM RELIEF IN NEBULOUS FORM

Congress Will Tackle Prohibition And Beer First

Washington, Nov. 29 — (AP) — Farm relief, named by Democrats to share legislative attention with prohibition in the short session, now seems billed for a delayed appearance on the congressional stage.

Though leaders here and in Warm Springs, Ga., where President-elect Roosevelt is vacationing, are working toward the farm-aid objective, repeal of the eighteenth amendment captured the first spotlight through Speaker Garner's plan for a vote on the opening day.

Second place in the Democratic House went to beer tax legislation. But by the time of its disposition there leaders hope a farm bill will be ready for a vote.

Form Is Nebulous

What form the agriculture relief will take is nebulous. The domestic allotment plan is the hub of most conversations in Democratic circles but the better known export debenture and equalization fee proposals have not been forgotten.

Democratic leaders working on the problem have met two obstacles to the party program—lack of unity among farm groups on a single plan and the necessity, if a new law is to be enacted before March 4, of drafting a measure satisfactory to President Hoover.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, independent Republican who supported Governor Roosevelt, voiced an opinion shared by many Democrats when he predicted upon his return to the Capitol that any "adequate" relief plan would be vetoed. Norris, like Chairman Jones of the House Agriculture committee, is a staunch advocate of the debenture which Mr. Hoover has opposed.

ROOSEVELT CONSIDERS

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 29 — (AP)—With material he has gleaned from several days of conferences at hand, Franklin D. Roosevelt came today to the task of putting his views of what is necessary to help the farmer before the House Agriculture committee that will act upon them.

In the opinion of some of those who are familiar with the series of conferences he has held, the President-elect is leaning toward some form of domestic allotment plan to be used in dealing with agricultural surpluses.

The outline he gave in his Topeka speech on farm relief methods was construed as an indication that some such plan might be contemplated and the advisers that he called in to counsel with him are men who have made a long study of the plan.

One of those summoned, but unable to come, was M. L. Wilson, of the Montana State Agricultural College, who played a large part in working out the so-called domestic allotment plan.

Would Assure Cost

Under this method, a board would work out an estimate of the amount of agricultural products needed for domestic consumption. For this portion of his crop, the farmer would be assured the cost of production.

The general details of the system to be employed probably would have to be worked out by either the Agricultural committees of the House and Senate or possibly by the Farm Board. The delegation that came to Warm Springs several days ago from the National Grange favored giving the Farm Board the power to select the method that would be used in dealing with agricultural surpluses.

The conference with members of the House Agriculture committee today follows extensive study and discussion of the agricultural problem which took Mr. Roosevelt far into last night.

Who was Who?

By LOUISE M. COMSTOCK

BUFFALO BILL

ASK the average American "Who was Buffalo Bill?" and he will answer "Why, Col. William Cody, of course." Therein he will be only partly right, for there were two other men who bore that title before Cody did.

In 1860, a year of drought in Kansas, a certain William Matthews of Wichita, Kan., went out to kill buffalo and sent back several wagonloads of meat to feed the starving settlers. They were so grateful they nicknamed him "Buffalo Bill."

During the Indian war on the southern plains in 1867-69 William Comstock, a celebrated guide, hunter and one of the favorite scouts of Gen. Phil Sheridan, gained such renown as a buffalo hunter that army officers at Fort Wallace, Kan., dubbed him "Buffalo Bill" Comstock. In the meantime William F. Cody, who had been scouting for the troops at Fort Ellisworth and Fort Fletcher, Kan., had also won a great reputation as a slayer of buffaloes.

So a hunting match between Comstock and Cody was arranged by their partisans and in this match Cody was victorious, killing 69 buffaloes to Comstock's 45 within a specified time. From that time on the Cody was the undisputed (ever though he had not been the first "Buffalo Bill").

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—That young man in Grand Junction, Colo., by the name of Walter Walker probably is wondering these days just when is a man a United States Senator, and if so, how and why.

For, from all appearances Walker is a senator and yet strictly speaking he is not.

He's drawing a huge salary.

There's an office in the Senate of office building awaiting him, fully staffed. He can claim it any day he wishes.

But, there is no seat for him in the Senate Chamber.

It's all the result of senate traditions—traditions and rules that permit a man to draw the salary of a senator, do the work of a senator, enjoy the privileges of a senator, even be called "Senator," yet not be one.

Must take oath—Until a man appears before the bar of the senate, in person, and takes the oath of office, he is not officially recognized as member of that body.

Last September, after the death of Senator Waterman of Colorado, a Democratic governor appointed Walker to take his place. Doubt arose immediately as to whether he would be eligible to sit in the short term of congress beginning in December.

The controversy finally simmered down to Walker running for that privilege in the general elections of November 8. He was opposed by a republican, Karl C. Schuyler, Alva B. Adams, the democratic candidate for the long term, beginning March 4, was not a short term candidate.

AN EX-SENATOR—Schuyler won over Walker by more than 1,000 votes after a long drawn out count that was decided by absentee ballots, and thus will take his seat in December.

Walker, therefore, will not have an opportunity to be sworn in before the regular session and thus will be an ex-senator before he could become a full-fledged senator.

It requires a special resolution of the senate to have the oath administered elsewhere than at the bar of that body. That has been done only once in recent history.

When Senator Shipstead, the Farmer-Labor member from Minnesota, first came to Washington, he was stricken ill before he could take the oath. He was ill for so long that the senate agreed to permit him to be sworn elsewhere.

Consequently, armed with a special resolution a senate clerk went to nearby Baltimore where Shipstead was confined to a hospital and administered the oath.

The fact that the senate will not be in session until Schuyler is ready to take his seat in December removes all probability of this course for Walker.

Brief Summary of Last Night's News

ILLINOIS:

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO—George Ketcham, 20, and another student at the Armour Institute of Technology had a wrestling match in the school gymnasium Nov. 20. Injuries Ketcham received proved fatal.

CHICAGO—In Michael Keigler's bakery there's a partition between Michael and gaze through a peephole. When a youthful bandit attempted to hold him up, Michael ran behind the partition and, seizing a pistol fired through the peephole, killing the bandit. Before police arrived the man was identified as one who had held up another bakery an hour earlier.

CHICAGO—City detectives had front seats in a running gun battle between two railroad detectives and a pair of box car looters. The incident occurred directly across from detective headquarters. A score of shots were fired by the railroad sleuths but their targets escaped in an automobile.

CHICAGO—The moot question of whether or not a man is entitled to heart balm is still undecided because Alanson Malott failed to appear in court to testify in his $25,000 breach of promise suit against Mrs. Mary Leutig Brown. Judge Joseph B. David was eager to make a test of the case but it was dismissed.

CHICAGO—The government lost a fight for $3,600 additional income tax and was required to return $76 to a taxpayer as a result of a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in upholding a decision of the Tax Appeals Board. The suit was based on the tax paid in 1923 by the Keystone Steel & Wire Company, Peoria. The company paid an original tax of $54,632.

YORKVILLE—Gus Winkler was ordered to trial January 3 after pleading not guilty to taking part in the Plano bank robbery. His plea was made before Judge John K. Newhall.

AURORA—Aurora's West High School band may not be any better than the four others picked as winners in a statewide contest at Urbana last spring, but it's luckier. A drawing to decide which of the five would play in the national contest at Chicago next spring was held and West High won.

The University of Hawaii holds one of its extension course schools on the rim of a volcano, so that the students can study botany, geology and volcanic phenomenon.

Week-end MURDER

by GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

BEGIN HERE TODAY
AMOS PARSONS, elderly cousin of LINDA AVERILL, falls to his death from the second floor balcony of the Averills' Long Island home. Linda reaches him just before he dies, in time to hear him gasp, "He pushed me—"

Linda, realizing her cousin had tried to tell her he was murdered, rushes upstairs to the balcony. Someone steps behind her, tries to strangle her and she falls to a faint. Her husband, TOM, sees her fall and rushes to her. There are four guests in the house and they all appear. The guests are: MR. STANTLAND, business associate of Tom's; CAPTAIN DE VOS, handsome Belgian; MARVIN PRATT, former senior of Linda's; and LIA, SHAUGHNESSY, Irish writer, each of them have quarreled with Cousin Amos.

DR. PARSONS takes charge. It is assumed Cousin Amos' death was accidental and that Linda fainted from shock. When she is finally able to tell Tom what happened she persuades him that they must keep the four guests with them until they discover who is the murderer. They are secretly aided in this plan when DR. ROYLE, official medical examiner, sends word that everyone in the house must remain until he has questioned them. Royle is on "sabbatical" and can not return for several hours.

Tom and Linda discuss the situation. Tom says Pratt is the only one against whom they have definite accusations. Linda says, "Oh, yes, we have. Against one other man."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVIII

TOM showed his surprise. "What do you mean?" he asked.

"Don't you remember what you told me about Mr. Shaughnessy?" Linda was deadly in earnest now. "Tom, why should he be up then, much less prowling around? An hour before you'd helped him up the stairs—drunk!"

"Well, not exactly drunk, Binks."

"Near enough! Did you see him start to undress?"

"No, I didn't need to stay. I was tired myself and he was able to navigate all right. Gosh, it seems a month ago instead of this very morning!"

"I was thinking—he'd been drinking, Tom, and he was quarrelsome, even the little I could see."

Tom's frown of concentration stopped her. "You know, Linda, I can't remember looking that door last night."

"The front door when we came in? I didn't see—oh, of course, you came up later after you took him over."

"Yes, I was hot and tired and pretty well jangled as to nerves by our delightful guests. Wanted to get my clothes off and get to bed—"

"You don't usually forget."

"I may not have. Just can't remember doing it. One of the ordinary bits of routine that simply doesn't register either way."

"You said you didn't see him to bed."

"You mean he could have followed me?"

"No, not exactly. But I was thinking that he might have watched you from the window. He could have noticed that—if you'd just hurried in and left the door open."

TOM made a gesture of weariness and distaste.

"Well, granting he got into the house and threw the old man over the balcony, how could he choke you and then show up on the terrace as I came up?"

"He could—that's just what I was figuring." Her voice was excited, her eyes bright. "Look, Tom, you were climbing on the raft—you saw me wave and a man behind me—and you dove. While you were in the air or under water he could step over me, run across the little balcony and into the nursery. It's empty and the nursery casement opens at a touch. By the time you were swimming in—"

"I see what you mean. You think Pratt came across the hall afterwards. But then, Binks, wouldn't Shaughnessy have been caught in the nursery?"

"Not at all. It's right opposite the door to the service stairs. He could slip across the hall, down the kitchen—the girls weren't stirring them—out the side door and come around on the front lawn and meet you, cool as a cucumber—"

"And surprised to see me there! Yes, you're right—in point of time anyhow, he certainly could. Tom whistled softly. "But, Binks—why not simply go back to the garage?"

Her face fell, then lightened. "Bravado, as you said of Marvin. And the Irish do love to shove off."

"You certainly do dislike that man, don't you, Binks?"

"I don't like any of them any other two well. And now about the other two?"

"Yes—either of them—"

"You said they both came into the room? Did you notice where they came from?"

"Where—oh, I see! If the one who did it escaped by way of the nursery he'd come from that end of the hall. But Stantland is down at this end already. That would be a give-away only if it were DeVos."

"I know. I just thought you might have noticed the direction from which they came."

"Never thought of it. Too busy with you—and besides, my back was to the door. They just appeared after I reached the room but before we brought you here."

"You said you didn't see him to bed."

"You mean he could have followed me?"

"No, not exactly. But I was thinking that he might have watched you from the window. He could have noticed that—if you'd just hurried in and left the door open."

TRAIN TO LEAD AIM OF FUTURE FARMERS GROUP

Vocational Agriculture In High Schools Offers Boys Opportunity

In the November number of the publication, "Agricultural Education," there appears an article written by a teacher of vocational agriculture on the topic, "Why Future Farmers of America." He states in part as follows:

"Since so many of our public officials and leaders have received an important part of their training on the farm, it would seem that our program in vocational agriculture would lack completeness if this element were missing or neglected. If any element is missing or neglected, we are hardly correct in claiming that we are training boys for vocation."

"The belief has often been expressed that the crying need of farmers is leaders—leaders that are good enough for the rank and file of American farmers to want to follow. If we can play some small part in the development and training of such leaders, our existence and efforts will certainly be amply justified and we will have done American agriculture a service it has never before received. The value of such a service can hardly be expressed in money values nor be adequately compared to the cost of maintenance and administration of this work authorized by the various legislative instruments."

"The statement has been made that 'real leaders are born—not made.' It is hardly sensible to expect that leaders will grow up like weeds to the same full power and usefulness as they would if they received training in their early development. It is also hardly outside the realm of possibility that there have been leaders born who never have achieved their full capacity for leadership. The existence of such a fact, if it is a fact, would seem to constitute nothing less than a calamity to agriculture for agriculture now is in a precarious position, and if it is any part due to the lack of competent leaders, the force of the truth of this statement must be apparent."

"Now if we, in our endeavors to educate for the vocations of farming, train boys to lead, is it not possible that we are bringing potential leaders into the beginning of their capacities, thereby starting them in the paths in which they can serve their occupation most usefully and needfully?"

"There is an instrument available for our use in assisting in the application of this angle to our program. That instrument is the Future Farmers of America organization. Put to its fullest use and application, it is possible to afford a considerable measure of training for leadership which before the inception of this agency of training was practically neglected."

"According to a celebrated American general, it is necessary to 'take orders properly before being successful in giving orders.' In F. F. A. work, boys learn to take orders if the F. F. A. work embraces worthwhile endeavors. Electing officers and continuing desirable and efficient boys in office for additional terms afford a means by which boys under supervision acquire experience and training for leadership."

"In a successful F. F. A. chapter the boys must work together. An increased tolerance of the rights and opinions of others grows. All these factors must be presented favorably before the ideal nationwide farmers' cooperative organization is possible. Those who will be judged will also receive training in putting competent leadership in an effective position and actually permit capable leadership to achieve its possible work and good."

Recognition should be taken here of the fact that students of agriculture in the Dixon High School have recently won national honors in Kansas City by being awarded first place in the meat identification contest. This is the fourth consecutive year that this honor has gone to boys at Dixon. All departments of vocational agriculture in section one, as well as all of Illinois, rejoice with Prof. Weiss and his boys that they should merit such honor. This is indeed a very creditable achievement which classes all over the United States are endeavoring to realize. Much praise is due the Dixon boys for their efforts and success.

normal in every way, a lot of problems, difficult of understanding are bound to occur.

Considering that the males to be used are cockerels, a few definite details of fall and winter management are necessary in order to insure good physical condition in the breeding season.

1. Selection should be started now and continued up to January 1st. Keep culling out of the unfit and cowardly males. Choose the ones that express vigor and size to the maximum degree. Those which are sexually dominant but small in size are not the best. The legs, slow maturing ones, which do not appear masculine, are of no breeding value.

2. Keep the cockerels away from the females, on free range, as late in the fall as possible. Leghorns should have stumps or rails, upon which they can sit out-of-doors, in order to minimize injury from fighting. When housing them in cold weather, still segregated from the females, allow plenty of room for physical comfort. Keep the males as comfortable as the females.

3. While on free range and finishing their growth, hard grain will dominate the feeding ration. Leghorns need no mash but the heavier breeds may have it available. After cold weather forces the males into winter quarters, they should be given grain, mash, grit and water. To keep in good breeding condition, males need more protein than the hard grains will provide.

4. If poultry is kept in climates that become very cold in winter, it may be practical to cut off the combs close to the skull or "dub" the males in the fall. Nothing is more uncomfortable or harmful to proper mating than a frozen comb. The removal of the comb in the fall is far less cruel than to allow it to be frozen in a cold winter.

The breeding season is short but it must be considered well in advance of January 1st. The male being an important part of the breeding flock, he must not only be well chosen and selected but given proper feed and care.

W. F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

The last few weeks I have written you quite a bit about turkeys. Now Thanksgiving is over and what I predicted came true: Too many turkeys did not reach the market until the Monday and Tuesday before the holiday—too late for the retailer. He had his turkeys bought before them.

I am told that in New York two hundred carloads of turkeys were left. They were put in storage and will come in competition with the turkeys that are sold at Christmas and later.

My advice for Christmas is the same as I gave you for Thanksgiving. Sell only mature birds and sell them to your dealer EARLY ENOUGH so that he can get them on the market at least a week before the holiday. The same thing holds true for chickens if you still have some left to sell.

Of course, what I hope is that your chickens were sold long ago. Ever since I began writing to you I have been saying that the man who hatched early and marketed early got the best price and made the most money. There has never been a better demonstration of the truth of that statement than we have had this year. You hardly need to be reminded that in September chickens were worth twice what they are now.

I am not bringing up this matter with the idea of "rubbing it in" or saying "I told you so," but I do want to call it to your attention in the hope that you will remember it and get started early this coming season.

What Can Be Expected of Prices

Naturally everyone is interested in prices and I will say that in the fifty-four years I have been in this business I never until now have known the time when 5 to 6-pound fowl (old hens) were bringing as much and in some cases more than turkeys.

But disappointed as producers were in the price they got for turkeys it is a fact that the farmer who raised the turkeys probably came out of the deal better than anyone who handled them further along the line, because almost without exception they lost money on them.

Of course, as far as price is concerned, the one thing that gives me considerable satisfaction is the price of eggs. They are extremely high. And I should say that it will be at least another month before there is a break in the market.

This is due to the fact that there are only half as many eggs in storage as there were a year ago and they will very likely be cleaned up by Christmas.

That means that we will go into the New Year with practically no storage eggs to compete with fresh eggs and pull down their price.

Even in normal times we usually start the year with around a million cases of storage eggs. So that should give you some idea of how very favorable the situation is for egg production. Are you taking advantage of it?

Sincerely yours,

W. F. Priebe

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers' Paper

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 29 —(AP)—

With industrial activity in many lines now undergoing seasonal contraction, consumer demand for farm products is unlikely to improve in the next month or two, the Prairie Farmer Weekly market review said. "Cities are feeling acutely the low level of farm income and the resulting weak demand for many of their products," the review said.

"Continuation of an up and down market for cattle with weakness predominating is probable during December. Well-finished grades and short-feds probably will lose more than the lower cut. Since some holding back of cattle has been evident in the last six weeks, the peak of receipts of short-feds from the heavy movement of feeders in late summer may occur in the next 60 days. The shrinkage of purchase of feeder cattle in the last six weeks compared with normal indicates that the decline to early spring will be less than usual in that period."

"While hog prices are probably due for further weakness early in December, the chances are moderately favorable for passing the fall and winter low point by Christmas. In the past 22 years, the low day has occurred twice in October, five times in November and nine times in December. The low day for the month of December came later than the 23rd in only one year. The winter low occurred once in January and five times in February."

"Lamb prices have been fluctuating widely, due to uneven marketing but probably passed the season's low mark several weeks ago. In eight of the past 11 years, December prices have averaged higher than October. Decreased numbers of fed lambs expected from the corn belt improve the chances for strength this year. Wool prices have yielded a little further with more dealers willing to make concessions, although the stronger ones are still holding for peak prices."

"Wheat prices are nearing a period when stability or strength appears more frequently than during the summer and fall. The movement of Canadian wheat to market lightens in December, and the close of lake navigation reduces pressure from Canadian wheat on world markets. Strength in prices in the next few weeks may be less than usual, as both Argentina and Australia are coming through with large crops. World supplies show a wide margin over import needs. "Corn prices in past years have usually declined during December although a tendency to rise from December to January has been evident. This year prices are so low that shipments to market probably will come from a restricted area. Improvement in grade will tend to sustain prices at the farm as compared with those at Central markets."

"Instead of increasing as expected, the make of butter has been running well below that of 1931. Prices have strengthened, reaching a new high level for the fall period. They may remain strong during December, depending on developments in production."

"Egg prices usually start downward by early December. Ordinary grades from the Middle West probably will hold up later than usual because of small storage stocks. "Poultry prices have shown increased strength during the last two weeks. Speculative demand for storage has strengthened."

Housewives wishing to save will do well to read the grocery and vegetable ads appearing in today's evening Telegraph.

FINAL DEMANDS OF AGRICULTURE ARE IN PROCESS

Farm Leaders Are Hopeful Of Arrangement On Their Program

Chicago, Nov. 29 —(AP)— Agriculture's final 1932 demands for relief legislation are being drafted in Chicago.

Before final adjournment of a series of meetings, there is a possibility that farm leaders will be united in support of some definite plan or principle for increasing crop prices. For months there has been agreement on general objectives.

The biggest and last of the annual conventions of the farm organizations, that of the American Farm Bureau Federation, opens a week from today, coincident with the short session of Congress. Farm relief is being discussed this week by state commissioners and secretaries of agriculture whose annual convention is one of a group of conferences being held by rural leaders during the International Livestock Show.

Major attention is being given to the question of surplus production and efforts to make the tariff applicable on that part of crops and livestock consumed within the United States. What the final outcome might be, leaders have declined to comment.

Current discussions are understood to revolve around modifications of the domestic allotment plan. It has taken the spotlight from the equalization fee proposal long supported by the Farm Bureau, and the expert debenture idea sponsored by the National Grange.

Before the allotment plan was projected into the national picture within recent months, heads of the Farm Bureau, Grange and National Farmers' Union agreed to support the debenture, equalization fee or any other method for promoting rural prosperity.

Two Hundred of PUPILS ENJOYED SOUP AND MILK

Teachers Assisted In Providing For Under Nourished

More than 200 pupils of the Dixon schools fully appreciate the efforts of the committee of the Dixon Loyalty League Community Kitchen to provide warm wholesome food for the deserving of the city through the winter months. Their appreciation was voiced yesterday, the first day for the delivery of hot soup, bread and milk to every school within the city. Teachers aided in serving the food and the school board has set aside rooms for the serving of the children.

At 11:30 each day the soup and milk leaves the Kitchen to be delivered to the different school buildings. In the central schools, the smaller children are given preference and are fed before 12 o'clock at which hour the older pupils arrive. Each pupil is furnished with a paper napkin, a bowl of steaming hot soup, a large slice of bread and a bottle of milk. At one school yesterday, the principal provided home made jelly for the children, while at another a teacher spread the bread with butter. After the noon hour the empty bowls, bottles, containers and spoons are returned to the Kitchen.

Is Appreciated Assurance that the action of the committee in charge of the Kitchen is appreciated by the pupils and teachers as well, was gained in a visit to the various schools at the noon hour Monday when they were enjoying their first treat. In some instances small children were eating their third bowl of the wholesome soup and all were eager for their bottle of milk, which is also furnished for the under-nourished children.

At some of the school buildings, Girl Scouts, attired in neat aprons and caps, were of great assistance in serving the children at the noon hour. Teachers in other buildings were superintending the distribution of the warm and wholesome food and in every instance the Kitchen committee was highly commended in its efforts to strengthen the bodies of undernourished school children. The only requirement of the schools is that a place be designated in which the food may be dispensed, all of the utensils being furnished by the committee. All of the rooms set aside for this purpose presented a very attractive appearance yesterday and the teachers generously cooperated in appeasing the appetites of the undernourished of the city schools. In many instances, mothers of the children have requested to be permitted to assist the teachers at the noon hour in the feeding of the children, which in some of the schools is quite a task.

Two Hundred of PUPILS ENJOYED SOUP AND MILK

Teachers Assisted In Providing For Under Nourished

More than 200 pupils of the Dixon schools fully appreciate the efforts of the committee of the Dixon Loyalty League Community Kitchen to provide warm wholesome food for the deserving of the city through the winter months. Their appreciation was voiced yesterday, the first day for the delivery of hot soup, bread and milk to every school within the city. Teachers aided in serving the food and the school board has set aside rooms for the serving of the children.

At 11:30 each day the soup and milk leaves the Kitchen to be delivered to the different school buildings. In the central schools, the smaller children are given preference and are fed before 12 o'clock at which hour the older pupils arrive. Each pupil is furnished with a paper napkin, a bowl of steaming hot soup, a large slice of bread and a bottle of milk. At one school yesterday, the principal provided home made jelly for the children, while at another a teacher spread the bread with butter. After the noon hour the empty bowls, bottles, containers and spoons are returned to the Kitchen.

Is Appreciated Assurance that the action of the committee in charge of the Kitchen is appreciated by the pupils and teachers as well, was gained in a visit to the various schools at the noon hour Monday when they were enjoying their first treat. In some instances small children were eating their third bowl of the wholesome soup and all were eager for their bottle of milk, which is also furnished for the under-nourished children.

At some of the school buildings, Girl Scouts, attired in neat aprons and caps, were of great assistance in serving the children at the noon hour. Teachers in other buildings were superintending the distribution of the warm and wholesome food and in every instance the Kitchen committee was highly commended in its efforts to strengthen the bodies of undernourished school children. The only requirement of the schools is that a place be designated in which the food may be dispensed, all of the utensils being furnished by the committee. All of the rooms set aside for this purpose presented a very attractive appearance yesterday and the teachers generously cooperated in appeasing the appetites of the undernourished of the city schools. In many instances, mothers of the children have requested to be permitted to assist the teachers at the noon hour in the feeding of the children, which in some of the schools is quite a task.
